

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A process for the preparation of dentures is described. The process includes preparing a blank made of a presintered material having a raw breaching resistance of from 15 to 30 Mpa. Products of such a process are also described, processing the blank, e.g. by milling, then dense sintering the blank at a temperature of from 1200 to 1650°C.